Key Findings

- Revenue remained stable, but customer growth stagnated.
- Profit margins stayed healthy at ~26–27%.
- Growth was primarily driven by repeat purchases rather than customer acquisition.
- Fashion emerged as the strongest growth category in 2025.
- Revenue depends heavily on repeat customers and top spenders.
- Discount increases did not consistently drive revenue growth.

Key Risks

- Limited active customer growth
- VIP segment underperformance
- Revenue concentration among top customers
- Weak Grocery category performance

Strategic Recommendations

- Strengthen customer acquisition strategy
- Improve VIP conversion and retention
- Optimize discount targeting
- Expand Fashion category investments
- Reassess Grocery profitability strategy
